Written by Philip Rood
Tuesday, 25 September 2012 09:29

North Carolina producer, rapper and songwriter Dae-Lee (David Lee Arrington) prepped the industry and music fans with his 2011 promotional project 'The Great Progression,' which made many stand up and take notice of his fresh style and versatile delivery. With the release of his new single "Life Is Worship" (featuring Chris Brown of Elevation Worship), Dae-Lee's eyes are now set on his debut project that will hit the street in the spring of 2013.

Go behind the scenes - "Life Is Worship" EPK

Music is an art form; an expression of words and/or of sound…sometimes fictionally based taking listeners into a world of fantasy. But for Christian artists, music is an exhortation of audible creativity full of hope and light. Dae-Lee is a Christian Hip Hop artist who is engaging the world in indisputable messages of Truth and artistically coalescing Hip Hop, pop and worship music into a contemporary urban package that is pleasing to a diverse audience.

Listen to - "Life Is Worship"

Dae-Lee has collaborated with CCM and Gospel heavy weight artists: GRAMMY™ nominee and Stellar Award winner Da' T.R.U.T.H., Hip Hop veteran KJ-52, Chris Brown of Elevation Worship, Travis Greene, Rhema Soul and K-Drama. Dae-Lee's ten years of experience behind the scenes as a producer has enhanced his skill sets, established a foundation of industry knowledge and has garnered him a high level of respect from these award-wining artists.

"Life Is Worship" single is available on iTunes Now!